Renowned Security Authority, Richard A. Clarke, Joins AirPatrol Corporation's Board of Directors

Former White House Advisor and Cyber Security Specialist Enhances AirPatrol's Team of Experts

Palo Alto, CA, Dec. 6, 2007 – AirPatrol Corporation today announced that Richard A. Clarke, an internationally recognized expert on homeland and cyber security issues, has joined its Board of Directors. Mr. Clarke has served the last three Presidents as a senior White House Advisor and is a highly acclaimed specialist on a range of issues including corporate risk management, information security technology, Federal Government IT issues and counterterrorism.

"We are delighted to welcome Richard to our Board of Directors," said Nicholas Miller, CEO of AirPatrol, wireless security provider to Fortune 100 companies and high profile government agencies. "His distinguished background in the government, combined with his deep knowledge of information privacy and security, will make him an invaluable advisor to our company."

In an extraordinary career of wide-ranging achievement, Mr. Clarke has served in the White House an unprecedented 11 consecutive years, having held the titles of Special Assistant to the President for Global Affairs, National Coordinator for Security and Counterterrorism, and Special Advisor to the President for Cyber Security. Prior to his White House years, Clarke served for 19 years in the Pentagon, the Intelligence Community, and State Department. During the Reagan Administration, he was Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Intelligence. During the George W. Bush senior Administration, he was Assistant Secretary of State for Political-Military Affairs and coordinated diplomatic efforts to support the 1990-1991 Gulf War and the subsequent security arrangements. Currently, Mr. Clarke is Chairman of Good Harbor Consulting, LLC, and advises clients on a range of security issues.

"Richard Clarke has the reputation and standing as one of our nation's most influential advisors, and it is a privilege to be working with him in this capacity," added Bradley N. Rotter, chairman of AirPatrol's Board of Directors. "He will bring invaluable experience and an enhanced perspective to AirPatrol, aiding in our mission to expose cutting-edge attacks and vulnerability trends to both wired and wireless networks. We are looking forward to leveraging Richard's considerable skills as we extend our leadership position in a number of markets."
